

Newly approved medications and treatments in the pipeline

The field of psoriasis treatments is evolving rapidly and several new treatments have been developed. For any guideline, it is a challenge to be up to date with the rapidly changing market of psoriasis treatments. New medications with very little use during regular clinical practice are difficult to assess with expert opinion knowledge. The guideline group has decided to focus on the licensed treatment options at the time point of the consensus conference. The group decided against a prospective inclusion of new drugs that are likely to be licensed in the near future, also in light of the lack of expert experience with these new drugs.

This guideline should be maintained as a “living” guideline, closely linked to the “living” Psoriasis Cochrane Review. An update including newly approved medications will be pursued in due time.
